Membership Benefits

Why should your business be a member of the Chamber of Commerce?

Our answer is straightforward:

To help build your business:

Chamber membership gives a business, your business, the opportunity to make money – both directly and indirectly. Each of our Chamber member enterprises receives the broadest, most diverse business opportunity network available in our region – each day, every day.

- ▲ Our Chamber website – www.greenecoc.org – attracts many visitors on a monthly basis. Many of those continue through to specific Chamber member listings, accessing their business websites directly. In this manner, the Chamber offers the best-targeted business opportunity as part of your membership. Our Chamber makes business referrals often – from restaurant, lodging and tourism to banking, real estate and professional services. Our office is staffed and ready to direct business in your direction too.
- ▲ Our Chamber monthly network events draw even more people to talking and doing business with each other; good old-fashioned commerce. We encourage direct communication amongst our members by providing opportunities at these events for business members to address those present.
- ▲ Our Chamber promotes and entertains development meetings that will give your business the opportunity to increase business and workforce skills by developing better business strategies.
- ▲ Our Chamber in association with Optima Health provides your business and employees the opportunity to have “Valued Added Benefits with their health insurance plans. For more information please see our attached insert.
- ▲ Our Chamber Board of Directors and our various committees actively engage in local public policy matters and decision-making with our Chamber member interests in mind. Chamber advocacy offers public decision-makers and citizens at large focused insight into the business and economic vitality aspects of public policy.
- ▲ Our Chamber is constantly looking for new ways to promote our Chamber business members. We provide our local newspaper with monthly Chamber Corner articles, promote Chamber business through local printed and online calendars, and communicate to both business and community members through our Facebook business page. What's next? We don't know but we are always open to finding new ways to direct more interest to our local business members.

To help build your community:

Our Chamber and our members continue to lead successful community associations within Greene County. Through constructive and proactive Chamber leadership, the true spirit of “asking what you can do for your county” has been a standard business practice. Building our community helps sustain and strengthen overall economic vitality. Vibrant enterprise adds investment and jobs, while adding even more to the civic and charitable engines of our community.

- ▲ The real power of the Chamber organization building our community, of course, is the people who volunteer. They are readily distinguished as key business and civic leaders in building and sustaining the economic vitality and quality of life in Greene County.
- ▲ Our strength is and always has been our Chamber membership. Chamber members are involved at every level in assessing risks and implementing new business enterprises within our community. As our area's economy continues to evolve toward a market led by education, highly-skilled technology-based jobs, retail, agri-business and tourism, the Chamber remains pivotal in keeping our members in direct contact with other businesses, markets, workforce, education and governmental agencies.
- ▲ Since our founding, the Greene County Chamber of Commerce (GCOC) has been dedicated to advancing the economic vitality and quality of life in the Greene County area so that the entire community can prosper. We are a dynamic, strong, innovative business alliance for all local business and community members.

The Chamber is the key to building a business and building a community – two reasons for any local organization to be a Greene County Chamber of Commerce member.

Membership affiliation benefits:

- ▲ The Chamber Affiliate Membership Program began in the Fall of 2012. "Small businesses, non-profit and civic organizations are at the heart of our national, state, and regional economies – and our chambers of commerce," said Patricia L. Cluff, Associate Vice President at the University of Virginia Health System and past Chair of the Chamber Board of Directors. "The regional chamber affiliations offer distinct opportunities for our Chamber members, and our neighboring Chamber members, to network and market their products and services to a broader regional marketplace."
- ▲ Eligible Chamber member firms and organizations – 10 or fewer employees, based in the neighboring counties of Greene, Orange, Louisa, and Fluvanna and members of those County Chambers – will become affiliated members of the Charlottesville Regional Chamber of Commerce (CRCC), at no additional charge. Reciprocally, Charlottesville Regional Chamber member firms with 10 or fewer employees will become affiliated members of the neighboring county Chambers, at no additional charge.
- ▲ Charlottesville Regional Chamber of Commerce will continue to maintain our long-standing policy of providing all new members a free hotlink (website linked through our directory) for the first year of affiliate membership. After the first year, hotlinks for affiliates, just like Charlottesville Chamber members, will be $40. This is an optional benefit. Your business will receive an invoice directly from the CRCC after your first year listed as an affiliate member.
- ▲ You are encouraged to view the CRCC website, www.cvillechamber.com, and subscribe to its weekly on-line newsletter and calendar for networking opportunities and chamber events in the region hosted by the Charlottesville Chamber.

- ▲ Leverage your GCOC membership and business exposure with this great regional affiliate opportunity!!
- ▲ It's as simple as that. There is no better organization, no better business group, no better civic group to help build your business and this community we call home. Existing members may request a free printed decal to display in their store-front by emailing us. They may also download and display the current membership emblem on their website by clicking on one of the links below.
- ▲ Businesses with 10 employees or fewer who are members of the Greene County Chamber of Commerce can join at no cost, the Small Business Alliance of the Virginia Chamber of Commerce.

Greene County Facts

History of Greene County: Pre-Settlement

At least ten thousand years ago, Paleo-Indians used to gather north of what is now Greene County, along the Shenandoah Valley, in search of their main source of spear and knife points: jasper. These hunters, however, only stayed for short periods of time to enjoy temporary hunting grounds in the Shenandoah Mountains. It is not surprising that artifacts from ten thousand years ago are rare and have never been found in Greene County. However, it is inconceivable that some adventurous group, possibly during a point in time when animals were fewer and more difficult to find, did not find their way into what is now Greene County.

Over time, with the retreating of glaciers and changing of the climate, Virginia became a warmer place with nut-producing trees and berry-producing bushes. While some bands of Paleo-Indians followed the glaciers north, other natives found permanent cave protection in the new warm environment where they could not only hunt but gather plenty. In 1953, archaeologists found and surveyed a rock shelter just west of Brown's Cove in Albemarle County which yielded proof of residency over a considerable period of time. Other examples of artifacts from c. 2000 BCE found in Greene County include stone ax heads, mortars, pestles and pottery.

Early European explorers in what is now Greene County, encountered Monacan Indians, what we now know to be a loose confederation of tribes related to those living in the Dakotas. Other tribes called them "Siouan," meaning "diggers in the dirt" in Algonquian language, for their traditions of cultivating corn, squash and other greens. While farming was their trademark, the hundreds of small arrows that have been found in the County show us that they were still hunters as well.

Explorers did find strong tribes, but early settlers found few if any natives. The pressure of white man's western movement, including the introduction of certain European diseases, probably caused remaining Indians to abandon the land. Today, there are still a few people near Amherst, Virginia who claim to be descendants of the Monacan tribe.

In Greene County, there is a persistent belief that some residents in the hollows have some Indian blood. We do know that in the period between the earliest colonists and the arrival of settlers, traders and trappers ventured deep into the Appalachian Mountains. Historically throughout the country, traders took native women as consorts both for personal interest and for diplomatic ties to local tribes. When the Indians left the area, it seems possible that a few descendants of the traders and trappers - with Indian blood - remained to intermarry with a few early settlers. It is doubtful if we will ever know for certain whether or not Indian blood remains in Greene County.

The Beginnings of Greene County

Around 1670, statutes aimed at controlling Indian trade prove that there existed extensive independent traders in the area. But in 1679, German scholar John Lederer led an expedition commissioned by Lieutenant Governor William Berkeley. They traveled along the Pamunkey River to the "Apalateaeen (sic) Mountains," encountering what we believe to be many sites in Greene County including the Rapidan River, Swift Run River and Hightop Mountain. The more well known expedition of Lieutenant Governor Alexander Spotswood set out on August 29, 1716 with 63 men and 73 horses. A preponderance of evidence indicates that they crossed the mountains at Swift Run Gap, traveling through what is now Greene County. The symbol of Greene County comes from this legendary trip, and the Greene County Historical Society's publication, A Greene County History, chronicles the legend: "We are told that [at the end of the journey, Spotswood] gave each of [his men] a golden horseshoe in which colored stones represented the nails. On one side was the Latin motto, 'Sic juvat transcendere montes' (How delightful it is to cross mountains). On the other side were the words, 'The Tramontane Order.' [Tramontane is a classical Italian-derived word referring to anything that comes from, or anyone who lives on, the other side of mountains]. Unfortunately the golden horseshoes, if Spotswood did actually present them to the men, have all been lost."

Within 20 years, almost all of what is now Greene County, except the more mountainous land, had been taken up in grants from the King of England, a total of c. 60,000 acres. One survey marker from an eight-piece (Ooctonia) grant still remains as a National and State Registered Historical site, the Ooctonia Stone. There were actually a number of rigorous requirements for keeping such a grant and after the initial eight grantees failed at meeting the requirements, the grant was renewed in 1729 to only one man - Robert Beverly. Through marriage into the Beverly family, William Stanard managed to inherit a significant portion of the Ooctonia grant in 1756. But after a lifetime of development of his own Stanard - ville and accession to membership in the Virginia House of Delegates, at his death William had sold or given away 4,520 acres of the inheritance. In 1816, a commission of three men, including William's son Robert Stanard, sold the remaining acreage. Despite the legal progression of land ownership, the village previously owned and heavily developed by William Stanard remains named after him and is the only legally recognized town in Greene County.

For reasons of distance from legal proceedings and a fear of the more dense slave population in lower Orange County, attempts began in 1819 to separate the "Upper District" from the "Lower District" in Orange. Finally in 1838, Senator Thomas Davis successfully passed "An Act Forming a New County out of the County of Orange." The new county was given the name of Nathanael Greene who gained fame in the Revolutionary War as second-in-command to General George Washington, and Stanardsville was chosen to be the County seat.

The Civil War

Numerous men from Greene County dutifully participated in the French and Indian Wars (at least five men), the Revolutionary War (57 men), the War of 1812 (at least three men), World War I (36 men, three casualties), World War II (531 soldiers, nine casualties), the Korean War (38 soldiers, two casualties), and the Vietnamese War (44 soldiers, one casualty).

However, the first time that any military action happened in Greene County and the conflict with the highest casualty rate for Greene County was the bloody American Civil War. There were eleven officers and at least 94 enlisted soldiers who joined the Confederate Army. Of those men seven were killed, eleven died during the war (it is assumed they died mainly from disease and infection), thirty were wounded and fourteen others were captured. Full two-thirds of the known soldiers were casualties. It is unknown and certainly undocumented if any men from Greene County decided to fight for the Union Army.

The Deserters of Hensley Hollow

The first Civil War excursions into Greene County involved the efforts of General Stonewall Jackson to capture a band of Confederate deserters of supposedly 200-500 men hiding in the mountains. The men were on the Western side of the mountains in Hensley Hollow, inside Rockingham County lines. The first search conducted by company F, Twelfth Cavalry, and led by Captain Harry Gilmor, gave up after two or three days of fruitless effort in what must have been very strange and difficult terrain. The second attempt made by two companies and led by Greene native Captain Lynn B McMullan and Captain Naderbush was successful in a way. Forty-eight men were driven over mountains into Greene County and captured. The enormous difference between the original estimates of 200-500 men and the 48 captured was never explained. While this was a minor incident during the war, it must have provided considerable excitement for the mountain people.

Sickness and War

In February of 1862, 8,500 Confederate soldiers led by General Richard S. Ewell made two camps in Greene County to protect Swift Run Gap and to be prepared to join General Jackson in the Shenandoah Valley. During the short period that they were camped in eastern Greene County, some of Ewell's men contracted an unknown disease (probably typhoid fever). The sick were treated in the basement of the Stanardsville Methodist Church and other available buildings by local women who served as nurses. In spite of their assistance, over 30 men died of the disease and were buried somewhere near the Shiloh Baptist Church. No one has been able to find the exact grave sites.

The Battle of Stanardsville

In 1864, the Union armies planned and carried out a diversionary drive through Greene County to Charlottesville where they hoped to disrupt Confederate communications, destroy bridges and mills, and generally divert Confederate attention from the important action at Richmond. Union General George Custer was in charge of 1,500 soldiers who stopped in Stanardsville on March 1, 1864, long enough to destroy the Confederate Supply Depot there and plunder public buildings, all the while holding the men of Stanardsville hostage. Custer's troops went on their merry way south but met a small Confederate force stationed at Rio Hill which forced the Union forces into retreat. Union and Confederate forces were in sporadic contact until the Union forces attempted to cross the Rapidan River into Madison County. On that spot was a skirmish now called the "Battle of Stanardsville." Following the relatively brief battle, Custer continued his retreat having accomplished his mission.

The Shenandoah National Park

In the late 1920's and into the 1930's the Commonwealth of Virginia used the power of eminent domain to acquire land for donation to the federal government in order to create Shenandoah National Park. From 1081 individual tracts of land, over 500 families and individuals were displaced from their homes so that the park could be established.

The Blue Ridge Heritage Project will acknowledge and honor the people whose sacrifices made it possible for us to have the Shenandoah National Park to enjoy today and into the future.

Greene County, Virginia is a fast-growing gateway between dynamic Northern Virginia and Charlottesville, a Money Magazine "100 best places to live." Greene County is a county located in central Virginia in the eastern United States that was established in 1838. Its county seat is Stanardsville. Centered at the crossroads between two major highways, U.S. 29 and U.S. 33, Greene County is only 100 miles southwest of Washington, DC, 20 miles north of downtown Charlottesville and 78 miles northwest of Virginia's capital city, Richmond. Greene County is also close to interstates 64 and 81, and is only four miles from the Charlottesville-Albemarle Airport.

Greene County is 157 square miles of land area with over 19,000 inhabitants. It was founded in 1838 and currently has a 3.4% growth rate.

Leisure Activities:

Discover the Blue Ridge Mountains - explore a wilderness trail or cycle along the rolling hills of a country road. Enjoy a day of fly fishing, golfing or horseback riding. Greene County offers an abundance of outdoor activities for the whole family to experience.

From select wines to cowboy boots and everything in between, shopping in Greene County is a delightful adventure. For the shopping enthusiasts, specialty shops abound, including art galleries, local potteries, antique collections and garden art.

Virginia became the birthplace of American wine due to Thomas Jefferson and his vision. Kilauren Winery and Stone Mountain Vineyards are part of the Monticello Wine Trail which includes more than 30 boutique wineries in central Virginia.

With more than 75,000 square feet of antiques, fine arts and collectibles, Greene County is an "antiquers" dream! Travel from shop to shop using our Ruckersville Antique District guide and enjoy the unique characteristics of each establishment. Period furniture, rare books and vintage glassware are just a few of the wonderful antiques to be found.

Greene County is home to a delightful array of crafters and artists. From photographers to painters, potters to jewelers, locals and visitors reap the benefits of these talented artisans. Be sure to visit in September for the annual Virginia Clay Festival.

Start your culinary journey in the historic town of Stanardsville and continue throughout the county. From fine dining to casual eateries, the family owned restaurants welcome visitors into the fold. Dine at an award-winning restaurant located in a charming historic inn or enjoy fresh locally-sourced meats and veggies on a quaint front porch with stellar Blue Ridge Mountain views.

Beautiful Greene County is the ideal central location to stay while visiting many of our regional historic sites. A scenic drive east takes you to Montpelier, home of James Madison. Or, head south through Charlottesville to tour Thomas Jefferson's Monticello and James Monroe's Ashlawn-Highland. Don't miss the experience of enjoying an 18th century lunch at Michie Tavern. The region is rich in Civil War sites and is part of the Journey Through Hallowed Ground, a National Heritage Area.

Whether you prefer the charm of a country inn, the convenience of a modern hotel, or a getaway in a secluded cabin, you'll find it here. For the more adventurous lodger, experience life in a mountaintop yurt.

Media:

Local Television stations received through much of the county include NBC, CBS, ABC, FOX and PBS affiliates in Charlottesville and Richmond. The Charlottesville stations provide frequent coverage of county news and events. Stations affiliated with other national networks can be received throughout the county. Cable television is available to most of the county with satellite being available to areas where it is not. The local paper, The Greene County Record, is distributed weekly, as well as a Charlottesville paper, The Daily Progress, which is distributed daily.

Greene County Schools

Education:

We are pleased and honored that parents consider Greene County Public Schools as an educational option for their students. We are proud of our entire school community and the high-quality services, staff, and educational experience that we provide. Not only are our facilities, programs, and staff top notch, but the Greene County community is an incredible place to work, live and raise a family.

We are passionately focused on providing individualized education programs for our students. We believe that, because of our dedicated teaching staff and quality, our curriculum and programs, Greene County Public School students are well prepared to succeed in the world of work. Our character education programs are designed to build a foundation for students to succeed in a diverse world while holding true to core virtues and principles.

We do our very best to communicate with parents and families to nurture a strong school/home partnership. We value our school and broad community; therefore, we work to keep the community informed of district initiatives and events.

 437 Evergreen Church Road
 Stanardsville, VA 22973
www.blueridgeheritageproject.com/greene
The Blue Ridge Heritage Project is a grassroots effort to honor the sacrifices made by Greene County families and landowners who were displaced so that the Shenandoah National Park could be established.
The mission of the project is to create a monument, in the form of a stone chimney with a bronze plaque, to honor these families and their sacrifices. Additionally, the group plans to educate visitors about the families, their stories, and what their life was like on the mountain through cultural displays.
The project plans to encourage historical and cultural tourism to the area and educate these visitors about the people who lived in this area of the Blue Ridge Mountains before the park.

Greene County Republican Committee

www.gcrcgop.com

The Greene County Republican Committee is located in Greene County, in the Central area of Virginia. The GCRC was founded on March 20, 1854. The GCRC is a true grassroots organization. The Committee (membership) run this local political party, according to its Bylaws.

We work locally to promote conservative values. We welcome all who are interested in helping elect Republican candidates.

Volunteers are needed for many initiatives! We like to match your talents with our to do list. We need help: posting signs, hosting political events, door to door candidate promotion, recruiting volunteers, phone banking, precinct day helpers, registering voters and more. Contact us to be part of the party! Our big event each year is the Greene County GOP Pig Roast. Held the first Saturday each October. It is one of the longest running political events in Virginia. 2016 marked its 36th year.

Our Committee Meetings are usually held the third Monday of the month, at 7pm in the Greene County Courthouse. 22 Court Street Stanardsville, VA 22973. All are welcome!

The Greene County Animal Shelter operates under guidelines from the Commonwealth of Virginia to temporarily house stray or injured animals, provide for adoption of as many animals as possible and to humanely follow procedures for euthanasia for unwanted animals. The Shelter strives to encourage, promote, and preserve responsible pet ownership and to prevent any form of cruelty to animals. The Madison-Greene Humane Society is a private, nonprofit, no kill cat shelter offering low-cost spay and neuter services for both cats and dogs from the surrounding counties. The society provides a shelter for homeless cats from around the area. We then vaccinate and spay or neuter these cats and kittens before they are adopted to loving homes. We work with the Pet Smart store in Forest Lakes shopping center and the Tractor Supply in Ruckersville. The spay neuter clinic operates on Wednesday's, call for an appointment if you need those services. The shelter is open Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday from 12 to 5 PM. for adoptions or to relinquish cats. You can always call if you have a circumstance that needs attention! On another note we need volunteers, foster homes, members, and most of all donations of food, supplies and money!
